UO alum and visiting Professor, Farid Nabti returns to teach another engaging course. Learn more about what U.S. foreign policy is, who makes it, why it is the way it is, and how it affects the rest of the world.

Professor Farid Nabti, originally from Lebanon, brings direct insights from the Middle East to Eugene this summer. Professor Nabti has taught and worked in the region for 20 years. He has been on the ground in key countries during the Arab Spring uprisings and their aftermath. This is a rare chance to take a course from a guest professor who can speak from the all too often silenced or marginalized Arab perspective on world politics and global development.

For more information: faridnabti@stanfordalumni.org
Visit the Political Science Department website for a full listing of summer courses.